"Of Little Faith."

BY MRS. S. M. WALSH.

Years that lie before us.

In due uncertainty,

What do ye hold in store?

Of good or ill, for me?

What shadows on my way?

Shall gather darker still?

What that I dread today?

Shall future time fulfill?

Most what I love to hold?

Drop from my fond caress?

Most hands from my fold?

Stay in the wilderness?

Oft, like my sad eye,

The unknown way appears?

No prospers fair surprise?

Adown the coming years?

Ay, while I stand here,

Mine eyes shall hidden be,

Though Heaven's will be near,

And God smiting me!

But when mine eyes—

No longer dimmed by tears,

Heaven's glittering domes unrise—

Then how I love with tears!

Then all the dreariest way,

Shall come with living light,

And then O sad To-day

Be radiant to my sight!

Then O my gaunted years,

No more uncertain!

Devoid my faithless years,

Ye held but good for me!
